This weekend we welcome Fr Rojas from Cross Catholic to our parish. As I said last week, this is one time when I put my money where my mouth is, since I have supported the work of Cross Catholic for many years. I won't repeat what Fr Rojas will say, but our support of those who are in need across the globe is not merely an optional luxury, but a necessity for Christians. I am away this weekend for my nephew's ninth birthday in Ocean Springs, Mississippi. That is on the Gulf Coast, and as I write this on Tuesday, heavy snow is falling, and they expect five inches. My nephew is thrilled with the snow, but we have a hunch it may be a little less exciting once he gets out into it.

As the Sacramental life of our parish moves on, we have students preparing for their First Communion, and also Confirmation. Deacon Keith Hart is also in his last months before his ordination as a priest in June. So, please, as you finish reading this, say a quick prayer for all of them and keep them in your prayers as this year progresses.
